KINGS THEATRE

October 16 to 19

Ten strangers are invited to a remote island under a variety of pretences. As the weather turns and the guests are cut off from the mainland, the brutal murders begin...Who is the killer? Is it Lombard, the mysterious regiment captain who abandoned his men? Could it be Armstrong, a doctor who has an intense interest in nervous disorders? What about Wargrave, a court justice with an eerily calm demeanour? Or Vera, a young secretary with a heart-breaking secret? one by one they fall, slain in accordance with the lines of a sinister nursery rhyme, it is clear the survivors can trust no one.

Join us for Nomads' exciting performance of And Then There Were None - Agatha Christie's own adaptation of her best-selling thriller that set the bar for the "whodunnit" genre.
